About Quintin Kynaston

Aspiration

Resilience

Community

Headteacher Alex Atherton

Welcome to Quintin Kynaston! A school where we place a high value on both academic qualifications and whole child development. Everyone at the school focuses on preparing students for life, and not just the next stage of their education. Our students are educated to aspire, rise to high level of challenge and seize all the opportunities on offer. Our school aim is to develop the best in every student.

At QK we have three core values:

Resilience - Aspiration - Community

We have a highly talented and motivated staff, dedicated to meeting the needs of our diverse student population, and ensuring they reach their potential. We have just moved into a new £35M state of the art building. Phase 2 has recently completed in January 2016 to re-developed and offer extensive outdoor spaces and playgrounds, including astro-turf football pitches and tennis courts.

We are delighted to host our second ever TeachMeet and trust that you will leave with some great ideas!

I look forward to meeting you.

Keynote Emily Mulqueeny

Emma is the CEO of Elbi Digital. She is also founder/board member of Rewired State and Young Rewired State; is Commissioner for the Speaker's Commission on Digital Democracy and a Google Fellow.

She has recently been included in the annual edition of Who's Who, voted:

- onto the Wired 100 list,
- Tech City 100,
- BIMA Hot 100,
- one of the UK's top 100 most compassionate business leaders (Salt Magazine),
- one of the top ten women in technology by The Guardian,
- top five influential women in IT by Information Week,
- into the top ten Tech Heroes for Good by NESTA,
- as one of the 25 most influential women in IT by Computer Weekly and
- one of 2014's 50 most incredible women in STEM.

Emma writes regularly for the British Press and on her own blog, she speaks on radio and on television and is best known for her campaign: 'Year 8 is too Late' (encouraging girls into technology subjects) and insights into the social digital generation: the 97ers.

Keynote Jaz Ampaw-Farr

Jaz Ampaw-Farr is a teacher with a passion for embedding ambition and resilience. Through her work in preventing literacy failure, she became a consultant and international ambassador.

Jaz has worked in a variety of educational settings offering solid, independent and unbiased advice. Her straight talking and endearing honesty allows teachers to make connections with their own work and, in the words of one headteacher, be 'galvanised into action'. Jaz keynotes at conferences, speaks at events and consults for government departments on literacy success and leadership in the UK and around the world.

You may recognise Jaz from the BBC spelling show Hard Spell Abbey, which she worked on as educational advisor, writer and co-presenter. Recently, she appeared as a candidate on The Apprentice. Fortunately, she is more of an expert at delivering motivational talks than selling lucky Chinese cats! Jaz is currently writing a book and filming a show for the BBC; adult illiteracy in the UK.

As a speaker, Jaz's enthusiasm is infectious and motivating. Her background as a stand up comedian, in-depth knowledge of her subject, personal journey and commitment to empowering teachers all guarantee Jaz's sessions to be engaging, inspiring and resourceful.
