Training for leaders...

Success and challenges of UK schools

Just Great Teaching is inspired by Ross's work with 300 schools and colleges across the world. Using a macro-lens to understand what successes and challenges all schools face, Ross provides a helpful overview to allow leaders to evaluate where they sit within the profession.

Leadership matters

All schools and colleges face the same challenges, but how they deal with them will be unique to their own context. There are some approaches all organisations can apply, regardless of context. The crux: It's not what you do, but how you do it that matters.

Strengthening organisational links

This research-based training will show leaders how to take action, zooming in on quality assurance processes for appraisal, action research, observations, as well as learning some new academic frameworks. Ten key aspects of school life can be delivered...

More training for leaders...

Growing great teachers

We know that coaching and developing teachers by observation can be transformational, but how it is applied in schools and colleges is a hit and miss. Alongside the stigma and myths associated with coaching and lesson observations, implementing quality conversations across an organisation is a significant challenge.

Research-informed practice

We know the quality of teaching matters more than anything else. We also know that people need to be understood in order to develop their true potential; to be supported and challenged within a trusted relationship.

Developing reliable evaluation methods

Using Ross's leadership experience and doctoral research, this training will provide a timeline for implementation across your organisation, as well as some critical tools all school leaders can introduce for appraisal, observations and research-informed practice to make meaningful conversations the heart of your organisation's pedagogy.

Delivery

1. Audience: All leaders
2. Delivery: 1-day (5hrs)

"Ross has a very powerful way of cutting through the bureaucracy that can and very often does, take teachers under!"
