Training for new teachers...

Helping new teachers master the basics

We know that most teachers new to the profession leave within the first 5 years, but digging into teacher workforce data, the vast majority of newly qualified teachers leave after their first two years! Teacher Toolkit training helps new teachers translate complicated tasks into meaningful processes for everyday teaching in and out of the classroom, improving retention.

Moving beyond planning and behaviour

All new teachers struggle with planning and behaviour. As they develop experience, these challenges evolve into data analysis and managing a heavier workload.

Developing routines

This training strips back complex tasks into effective methodologies to help new teachers get off to a strong start. Using tried and tested pragmatic and research-informed advice, this toolkit approach will help individuals thrive within a challenging profession.
